Dear Jack,

I am bemused to learn that details from my objections to the planning for Loxwood Claypits have been redacted.
Who is the redacter, and by whose authority does he redact?
I would be far happier if ALL my comments, and those of other objectors, were to remain entire and not be fiddled with by what I suspect are interested parties - interested, that is, in ensuring that planning permission is granted.

I repeat the mainstream of my objections - NO claypits thank you; this is rural Sussex/Surrey border country and should in no way be industrialised.

Very sincerely Patrick McGuinness-Smith
