Comments	35 HGV deliveries a day will kill our High Street, not known as a quick road to negotiate. Safety is a huge factor here, with Ship Street and Dunnings Road unsuitable for HGVs with part of the specified journey not even having a pavement! Dunnings Road up to Standen is a popular route for cyclists travelling from town into Ashdown Forest and we should be doing more to protect their safety rather than expose them to probable accidents as vehicles too wide for those lanes try and overtake. Numerous pedestrians use this route too, and their safety will be compromised, particularly on the portion of road with no pavement. HGVs are noisy vehicles and the weight of them will destroy the road tarmac, which is already under great strain with numerous potholes. There are various schools and nurseries on that route too and the current light load of buses on the roads around the farm can cause holdups as vehicles coming the other way struggle to negotiate around buses as it is, another 35 obstacles a day will result in chaos.
