Comments	I strongly object to this incinerator. The sheer size of this massive construction would seriously damage the landscape for miles around, covering 17.6 acres, and the height of the chimney at 85m being even higher than the beautiful Chichester Cathedral, and far higher than Arundel Cathedral. It's huge and totally unecessary, prevailing winds would carry toxic ash over much of West Sussex. It is far too close to the National Park, and Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty; plus the increased HGV traffic would be horrendous, and the congestion and pollution they would cause alone is alarming.
