Comments	We can understand the need for such a facility. However you say it is going to take 120 lorries per day to bring the waste to the site. The local roads are small and not suitable for HGV's and a sign at the roundabout in Arundel states this fact, but HGV still come along Ford Road and over the railway crossing and a number of them are doing over the 40MPH. A lot of them also stop waiting for the gates to open with their engines left running. This does give off a lot of Carbon Monoxide over the area around including a number of homes . Also at the moments a number of waste lorries using this road don't have their loads covered completely and some of the rubbish blows off onto the roads. With all this in mind and the large number of homes being proposed for this area, including the old airfield , we don't think this is a good place to build the facility.
