Comments	I object to the building of this incinerator plant in Ford as it will be a blot on the landscape and produce a number of harmful and smelly pollutants which will not only cover Ford but also flow directly over Arundel and the surrounding countryside via the south easterly breezes which flow constantly from the sea towards to the South Downs. The dust and other harmful pollutants will be significant and their effect on the historic buildings of this area could be significant and unnecessary as well as the harmful effects on our fragile countryside of the South Downs natural park. Likewise the amount of heavy goods traffic that will result on the already overburdened Ford Road and A27 will cause much more road noise, pollution and traffic issues that the area cannot absorb. The effect on the town of Arundel as a leading attraction for its neighbours in West Sussex and tourists from further a field would be negatively impacted as beyond the harmful pollutants which will flow directly towards and settle on Arundel, the massive scale of the incinerator will be perhaps the most visible large structure on the horizon and make our limited green countryside look like a massive industrial estate.
