Comments	I object to this monstrosity on a number of bases. Firstly thisnis and has increasingly become a residential area. Affecting their quality in any way here risks the health of this and future generations. Many things are considered safe until the effects are proven. Asbestos for example. Secondly, changing the look and nature of the area. When there are only houses all around this facility it will dominate the look of the area. As an agricultural and now residential area this is totally unacceptable visibly. Thirdly, the traffic generated will have a harmful effect of the area. It is already degenerating with little change in roads and infrastructure. Of course this facility will import waste from other areas. As WSCC have a proven track record of not developing road systems and of only assessing the impact of each development on it's own, there is now implicit guarantee of effective management of these lorries thundering round residential areas and clogging up junctions. The roads cant cope with what's on them now if you've ever seen buses trying to negotiate the lanes.
