Comments	Balcombe is in an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty & this activity is not congruent with a preservation area. In a time of chronic climate change another oil well disturbing the land on which we depend is not a progressive choice is any way, shape or means. Fossil fuels need to decline & efforts go into renewable sources of energy. This type of disturbing activity could pollute the ground water & the nearby Ardingly reservoir. The stimulation by acid basically means acid fracturing & the suggested 14 metre flare is an air pollution risk to local people. It is my understanding that the village of Balcombe has already voted 3 times to reject this development. & the possible impact on health & land are not acceptable & not in the interests of a progressive, sustainable Uk
