Comments	We are facing climate breakdown and have to stand against pressure to continue exploiting fossil fuels. Fracked gas contributes huge amount of climate-changing emissions through escaped methane. At the local level, this application is not appropriate in an area of outstanding natural beauty - for many reasons including the presence of increased HGV traffic going past the school It carries the rIsk of pollution to the nearby reservoir. Flaring at fracking sites impacts negatively on air quality and therefore health. The potential risks to groundwater quality is also frightening. All of these things carry threats to biodiversity - at a time when protecting biodiversity is becoming more and more urgent to sustaining a healthy existence for all species including our own.
