Comments	This site is too close to residential housing. It will devalue hugely those houses that are in sight of the building. If built will there be compensation from the company for those whose houses that will be blighted? I would not buy a house in this area. No doubt the operators have said that it will not have an air impact. The Staffordshire residents in the news this week who are complaining of headaches and nausea from a nearby landfill stench were no doubt told the same when that company made promises. The authorities do not have the power or can act quickly enough if things go wrong. Should not be approved.
