Comments	This monstrosity should not be allowed for so many reasons. Apart from the blight it will be for the surrounding areas, a scar on the landscape that we as residents of a beautiful area hold dear. What I am worried about it the environmental impact, it has already been proven that operations like this put pollutants into the air which have been proven to contribute to health complications and sometimes death in children and the vulnerable. This will inevitably decrease property values in the immediate area. We are meant to be all working together to save our planet, not destroy it. This is a costly and un necessary step, this kind of building has been banned in countries across Europe. So clearly this shouldnt be allowed and is purely a money making exercise. People will not stand for this. And they should not have to
