Comments	Firstly ,to build a rubbish incinerator to produce power goes against the worldwide policy of reducing our carbon footprint and general atmospheric pollution. Secondly, this area has had and continues to have, more and more houses built on farm land to the extent that villages are beginning to merge. The roads are beginning to become very busy . For example, adding a large number of lorries to the already very busy A259 and roads leading to the incinerator, which of course, includes the level crossing, would cause chaos and more air and noise pollution.
