I am at a loss to understand how putting this monstrous, hoisy, pollution emitting eyesore in a small space between 3 rural villages can even be contemplated. The very high number of additional heavy lorries running day and night along the single carriageway ocal roads will be noisy, dangerous to cyclists and other road users not to mention destroying the local oad surfaces which are already potholed enough around the area. I doubt very much that the drivers will stick to the designated routes, finding short cuts over time and producing noise and pollution over a much wider area. I have seen that an ERF site has already been passed by planning for Horsham and here is already an existing ERF site in Newhaven, therefore another one so close by is absolutely idiculous. There is no need to be justifying a second site which would just end up importing waste rom far outside West Sussex boundaries. The noise, smell , smoke plume and the sheer size of the building and chimneys is not something that should be allowed in such a rural area where there are no vills to hide its ugly appearance. I notice that in the photos taken to support the site they have made he building a light grey colour to match the colour of the sky they have chosen in an attempt to make t appear less of an eye sore. We all know the sky is any colour other than light grey. How can a souncil planning committee even consider allowing this when it is to be built almost in the middle of a nousing Masterplan being developed by Redrow along with Arun council which is for 1500 homes plus wo schools, a doctors, a care home and a library to mention but a few. This Masterplan to provide nousing meeds in the area was started in 2014, how on earth did the planning council pass the original ncinerator site in 2015 - how on earth can such a large housing community live next door to a massive ERF plant. The building will be vis
