Comments	the planned incinerator at Ford airfield will severely affect the landscape which is known for its beauty and attracts a lot of tourism. It will also impact on residents' wellbeing who will be subjected to the emissions, lorry traffic and construction disruption. The construction is far too close to residential dwellings. The tower will be visible for miles from the South Down National Park, an area that attracts a lot of visitors with enormous recreational value. Access on the Ford road will be severely impacted. Considering a housing development is also being planned, it is astonishing that the plan for an incinerator is even being considered.
