Comments	Whilst this type of application has the associated negative stigma being waste facility, the benefits to the local area and county as a whole vastly outweigh these. For the local residents numerous jobs will be created during and after the construction and there would also be a knock effect in associated industries. There is also huge benefits to local businesses in that currently the waste collection prices are high and stagnant due to the cost of disposal. Building this plant would enable companies a cheaper and environmentally friendly disposal option which in turn is likely to be passed onto customers. Having lived in the area for 21 years the airfield has been long overdue development, it is in a rural area and would therefore have minimal impact on residents and would encourage further investment in the area which can only be positive post pandemic.
