Comments	Have a look at what has been achieved at a waste to energy facility in Copenhill, Copenhagen - complete with dry ski slope and climbing wall and is providing recycled materials, electricity and district heating to the city, meeting contemporary standards for health and safety. The concept of the one proposed at Ford is a carbuncle, AND very near sites earmarked for new housing. It is huge and ugly and likely to harm air quality and generate a lot of traffic on our congested and narrow south coast roads, which is a major problem which needs sorting. Surely there is a better way. https://wastemanagement-world.com/a/copenhill-a-danish-waste-to-energy-icon-is-born
