Comments	These installations are health hazards of the first order. Taking environmental risks has criminally cost many lives and many billions of taxpayers' money over the last year, because the dangers were ignored in the obsession to make money. The lessons of the COVID scandal need to be learned, forever. It is, therefore, vital and urgent to find risk -averse solutions to our waste disposal problems, rather than dismissing the valid and growing environmental concerns of the public in this regard as the views of a crackpot gang of "tree-huggers".
