Comments	Once again, WSCC is dumping their badly thought out plans on Ford Airfield. Why not consider siting this unnecessary facility close to Chichester? Because you know it wouldn't get beyond the concept phase. The roads to access this site are already being wrecked by large HGV vehicles driving to and from the industrial estates in the area. The road network was never built for the number of vehicles currently using this site. This site will encourage incineration rather than recycling and the exhaust gases are going to cause the environment to suffer impacting our diverse wildlife, the current and future residents. The level of CO2 exhaust is counterintuitive to WSCC's statement on Sustainability. I quote "Find out about our commitment to sustainability and how we are reducing our carbon footprint. We are committed to becoming a more sustainable organisation and want sustainability to be more central to the way we all work. We believe this approach will help us: combat climate change, work more efficiently drive down our costs, increase our resilience to a changing climate, continue to deliver high quality services to our community. ensure that all our work benefits society, the economy and the environment in the long-term." A classic example of Greenwash! If you approve this you are guilty of blatant hypocrisy! There are plans for 1000's of new houses in the area and WSCC are planning for this? The visual impact of this unsightly monstrosity should not be approved as it will ruin the beautiful area of the Arun estuary.
