Comments	The planned incinerator is far too big and will be a blight on the Arun Valley, damaging the South Downs National Park and the historic character of Arundel. There is no need for an incinerator in West Sussex. The council should be doing more recycling rather than planning to burn. The incinerator will have a malign effect on air pollution, both through producing NO2 and through the extra traffic generated. It is completely out of step with the country's stated climate change goals, as it will produce more CO2 than coal and oil electricity. In addition, emissions from the incinerator will produce dioxins and extra fine particulate matter that are harmful to humans and to the environment. I believe the proposal would put the health of the environment at risk as well as being a massive eyesore in the Arun Valley, and should be rejected on those grounds. Thank you for your attention.
