| Comments                                     | The air pollution from incineration of waste material can be blown in the direction of my house and neighbouring houses in which is increasingly worse for my asthma. The increased traffic flow through Arundel and Ford area from HGV's is not needed. The roads through Ford and Avisford in which is the prefered root for HGV's is too small, dangerous and already far too congested on a popular natural cyclist root. The roads around the area are already in poor condition through Ford due to the current flow of HGV's that already use that root. Also the ammount of wildlife around that area would be disturbed and the fact its close proximity to the river cause potential pollution. |
