AIR POLLUTION

Up until now incinerator emissions have been limited by EU standards, which the industry and the UK government has looked to weaken. From next year they will be decided domestically.

HOUSE PRICES

Are you concerned about how this proposed incinerator and it's negative effects might affect house prices?

Traffic – In addition to increases in the general volume of traffic and the pollution that this brings, some of those living near incinerators have observed HGVs ignoring planning conditions designed to control adverse impacts. History of this Industry clearly confirms that after planning permission is granted on the basis of strict controls over when and where the HGVs can travel, it is not unusual for operators to seek to change the arrangement to enable increases in the number of vehicles, extensions of the time these vehicles are permitted, and expansion of the routes that they are allowed to take. Such changes are often allowed under delegated powers without any community consultation, even in circumstances where the changes directly break promises made to the community about how traffic impacts will be strictly controlled.

Property values – Whether or not the loss of property value is a material planning consideration, it is not unusual for houses prices to fall when there is a proposed or actual incinerator. There are numerous instances where residents have reported experiencing difficulty selling their property due to the threat of an incinerator. Operators do not tend to compensate residents who have suffered financially as a result of incinerators or incinerator proposals.

There is a world of difference between the theory and practice of incineration, and that difference can ruin the health and well-being of communities that host these facilities. Whatever, the proposed changes this is an unsightly monstrosity and must be refused Planning in this area.
