Dear Sir,

We feel very strongly about the plan to build off Ford Road, Arundel, and would ask you if you could help us to move it to the original site at Fitzallen Road fields. These are only used for cattle or horses and was the most practical place because there is direct access to the by-pass (ring road) and residents could walk to the Town or railway Station easily. To build on fields that are used for agriculture and have been farmed for centuries is wrong. These are green belt, and they boarder the Town Perimeter.

Different crops brought many species of birds, and wild life diversity, now we are out of the Euro market supply we need all the green fields possible. This whole thing has been badly done. The Threat of the New Bypass nearby is bad enough as it leaves green fields likely to be infilled. This vally area was once to have been included up to Ford Train Station. This environment should at all costs be saved for the future. IT is one of the last green areas left by the Coast. It is still not too late to save our countryside from been a suburb of Littlehampton!

Yours Sincerely
