Comments	My reasons for objecting: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. There is no demand for clay in the region and it seems as if the waste site is their main objective in making money.2. The Loxwood road is totally unsuitable for that amount of HGV traffic. I walk regularly from Tismans to Bucks Green and one is very aware of the narrowness of the pavement and the amount of existing traffic. It would make it even more dangerous. The junction onto the A281 is also very hazardous and some of the Loxwood road itself is hardly wide to accommodate HGV passing each other.3. I walk regularly in the woods and along the footpaths near the proposed site and I feel appalled that this wonderful area will cease to be tranquil and safe for all the people who enjoy it. The HGVs would have to pass over footpaths which would make it dangerous for walkers, children, dogs etc. Also the small area for car parking would be hugely affected and dangerous with HGVs turning in and coming out. During the winter the amount of mud being deposited onto the road would be considerable.4. Basically I can see absolutely no advantage to anyone in having this clay pit and waste disposal site in this tranquil, glorious and ancient wood and I object in the very strongest terms.
