I object strongly to this application.

The case for the extraction of clay seems to be an excuse for the setting up of a recycling plant in a totally inappropriate area. This is a tranquil woodland much used by the local community for recreational purposes. The destruction of trees some of which are in ancient woodland and the industrial development of this area will have a great impact on its flora and fauna to the detriment not only of the present community but generations to come.

I wonder if any of those making this application will be directly affected by the changes which would ensue if this application was granted.

A recycling plant would mean a great increase in HGVs using Loxwood Road to enter or exit the A281, the proposed route for these vehicles. As a resident I am very aware of the problems this would cause for existing road users including pedestrians, cyclists and horse riders. The road is narrow in places and there is no pavement along some of its length.
