Comments	As an 18 year old who has grown up in this area, I find it astounding that such a pitiful attempt at ruining the frequently used local woodland is even being considered when our own government has specifically set out it's target for leading the world as a green nation. I would very much like to know which part of "deforestation" and "environmental degradation" is helping towards this target.

The argument that this may somehow create employment or industry is laughable, particularly at a time when a huge shortage of workers is crippling this country's recovery from the pandemic.

I sincerely hope that the planned destruction does not go ahead and I thank you for your time and consideration.
