Comments	The Loxwood Clay Pits application is of real concern. The thought of destructing and tearing into a beautiful woodland area is unthinkable. Pure greed comes to mind, and sod the consequences. This is a greenfield site, and therefore the application should be dismissed forthwith. Nature has a right to survive where it exists, and not to be disrupted, destroyed or moved on. The preposterous amount of trucks planned for this proposal is a disaster waiting to happen. With the surrounding area heavily used by a combination of pedestrians cyclists and horse riders, I dread to think who will be the first fatality of many. It will happen. The roads are already in a state of disrepair, and this will only compact the problem further, causing more issues and costs to all this We already have enough clay to sustain us for 25 years, so again reject the need to upset the lives of people, fauna and flora.
