Comments	1. There is no current need for further clay extraction within the county. 2.we should be conserving woodland, not destroying it. there are areas of ancient woodland and habitats for a variety of species .once destroyed ,they can never be effectively replaced. 3. Footpaths enjoyed by so many people from the area will be taken from us. 4 traffic generated from the site will need to use loxwood road, a road much used by cyclists, walkers and local residents, with a number of narrow points along its length totally unsuited to heavy vehicles which at best could lead to severe hold ups and at worst, fatalities
