Comments	I object to the proposals from LCP. The site is in a rural wooded area characterized by managed woodland, surrounded by farmland. The nearby roads serve villages and the PROW the usual walkers and riders, both in increasing numbers as more houses are built in the surrounding area. Countryside amenities are increasingly important to us all. This is not an industrialized locale and the LCP proposals wish to change the character of this area. Heavy Lorry movements: firstly the LCP-estimated numbers needed to service any clay pit may well be on the conservative side but be in no doubt that the affect upon the locals will be significant; noise, extra risks to all road users and those on the bridleways, dangers created at junctions and turns into and out of the site-roads. Claims by LCP that there are demands for extra Construction Recycling Capacity: Where is the evidence to support this? Demand for Clay: Do we need this clay to make bricks here in West Sussex/Surrey? Surely to dig clay here and then transport it many miles away is a non-starter?
