Comments	In their additional information the applicant seems to suggest that there is something unique about the clay from this site and its use in brick making. As any local knows there is no shortage of potential sites around here, in deed if this is successful I may apply for change of use to my back garden into a clay pit. The applicant gives no evidence that there is a shortage of brick supply. Ibstock, the largest UK supplier reported last week, "Whilst we remain mindful of ongoing macro uncertainties, including those related to supply chains and input cost inflation, the good momentum achieved through the final months of 2021, as well as additional brick capacity coming on stream during 2022, provides us with a strong platform for significant further financial and strategic progress in the current year."
